

Non-Screen Activities

You could teach your child/ren to: tie their shoelaces; tell the time; get dressed independently; how to fold their clothes; put on, and zip up their own coat; know the value of coins; how to do some gardening or how to do some simple household chores.

Here are some other ideas that don't require a computer...once you've read them!

Click here for fun and educational non-screen activities that can be completed at home and support independent learning.

We re-tweeted a post on Twitter with 100 things to do indoors.

Fun home activities with kids -this is an Australian website but has some good ideas!

Scouts: The Great Indoors! - Ideas and activities for inside the home.

Woodland Trust - Nature-based activities to take part in at home.

The Artful Parent – Easy and fun kids' art, family crafts and children's activities.

Paper and pencil type activities which develop problem-solving skills such as: Noughts and Crosses (or make up your own shapes – eg cats and dog: same grid, just draw cats and dogs!); Hangman; Squares etc. See the link for more ideas.

Alfresco Learning-activities are designed to be delivered in a range of outdoor spaces including gardens and driveways. Some of the activities are free and some have a cost attached but you may be able to get the idea from the picture!

If you have a garden here are some ideas for fun activities. Many of them can be done indoors as well.

The muddy puddle teacher- Fun and free garden activities

